ADD IT YOUR WAY

We gladly boast about the uniqueness of our town, but is there really anything unique about Sandviken?

There are 290 municipalities in Sweden and truth be told; they as well may have lakes, beautiful nature, winter fun and outdoor activities all year around, a vivid cultural scene, venues for great events, pioneering research and exciting work opportunities close to the capital. It's hard to admit, but there are also others with outstanding bandy teams.

However, if you sum up what you like you may soon discover that Sandviken offers many unique combinations. Hopefully you, as a visitor or already a resident, will combine the parts that suits you. In other words 1+1 may equal 3 or even more in your own way.

THE CHURCH

When you combine food, culture and a great venue to visit, you end up at The Church. The former Baptist church has been transformed into a Gastropub and it is the beautiful environment, where even the church organ has been preserved, together with the menu of local produce that makes The Church special. Meet a friend for a drink, enjoy a dinner in peace and quiet or with live music. To experience anything like it, you would have to travel to Dublin from which the inspiration was found.

Book tips from THE PROVINCE OF LITERATURE

In Sandviken and surrounding places there are a fine collection of appreciated writers and poets. Here are some various tips from Stig Sjödin to Mamma Moo.

- None of them farther away than the nearest library.

Stig Sjödin, made his debut in 1945, releasing a collection of poems in the book Sotfragment four years later. In 2017 we celebrate his 100th birthday, born in Högbo.

Bernt-Olov Anderssons trilogy I syrenernas tid mostly takes place in the environment where Stig Sjödin grew up. In the fall of 2018 the autobiographical Den osynliga nåden was released.

Anna Jörgensdotter, Helene Rådberg och Carolina Thorell together wrote the great literary work Livfjädrar – Kvinnornas Sandviken for the anniversary year of 2012. Since then they have all released their own books; Solidärer, Junrukällorna and Politiken.

1991 Jujja and Tomas Wieslander published the first book about Mamma Moo and Crow. Soon there were many more books about the characters and they have been translated to more than 30 languages. Jujja celebrates the cow and the crow with the new book, artfully illustrated by Sven Nordqvist.

Camilla Lagerqvist writes about teenage love in the shadow of the ever so present death in a sanatorium during the 1930's in her book Den Vita döden. It follows her acclaimed book series about the children "Svarta rosornas" adventure during the second world war on the border between Sweden and Norway.

But how does it add up with Jujja born in Stockholm and the literature province Sandviken? When Mamma Moo and Crow were created, Jujja and Tomas were living in Åttersta just outside Sandviken, that's how the story goes.
